

Resume

Paul H. Dickinson, AIA
President
Principal

Profile

The founder of Integrated Architecture, Paul excels in his ability to think outside the boundaries of convention. As a working principal, Paul represents IA's commitment to positively affect the built environment, exploring all possibilities on behalf of the client, and assuring that each project achieves the highest degree of success. The result is an impressive resume of iconic projects that have helped redefine the practice of architecture in West Michigan and beyond. Involved in over three quarters of a billion dollars of construction, Paul's architectural and project management experience includes commercial, education, retail, industrial, municipal, healthcare and fitness.
